

Holy Trinity Fabric Report

CHURCH

I can report that the Fabric, Goods and Ornaments of the Church are in satisfactory condition, but there is work which needs doing as and when we have the resources to pay for them but nothing at the moment that requires immediate or urgent attention. PAT testing is ongoing. At some time in the near future it would be nice to have a spring clean inside the Church in places where we are unable to reach and remove cobwebs and dust.

Reg Haydon

We have not undertaken any major refurbishment projects to either the Church or the Church Hall this year. However the works itemized in the 2015 Quinquennial Report have been identified and costed. It is intended to carry out a condition survey of the Church Hall and car park early this year and ascertain which items of work need to be prioritized together with the most urgent Quinquennial works.

Bob Whittaker / Keith Rayner

HALL

Heating - Since the installation of the boost button we have had far fewer complaints about hall temperature.

Storage - still proves to be a problem area with chairs and tables still continuing to be stacked in front of the cleaner's shelves. The state of the Cochrane room and the standard of chair stacking on the trolleys has improved but this unfortunately hasn't extended to the table trolley! A general audit of storage still needs to be actioned.

Lights - We haven't been aware of any complaints of lights being left on overnight but since all the light bulbs are gradually being replaced with LEDs this won't be much of an issue anyway.

Future issues - It is noted that the floor in the main hall is deteriorating, including one loose board, and this will need to be addressed fairly soon.

Gill Parsonson